

URGES WIDER USE OF PULP FORESTS

Meredith Points to Vast Resources of Northwest in Newsprint Dilemma.

Greater use of the vast forest resources of the Pacific Northwest and Alaska, and the growing of much more timber in New England and the Lake States, were advocated by E. T. Meredith, Secretary of Agriculture, in a letter to the American Pulp and Paper Association.

Such a program, the Secretary said, will promote a permanent solution of the newsprint problem, and is in accord with constructive measures now being advocated, including the proposed Poindexter pulp survey provided for in a bill now pending in the Senate.

Essentials in this program, the Secretary said, were the continuation of technical investigation work such as the Forest Service now carries on and contemplates, and adequate support of the service's fire protection and other activities. The Secretary's letter expressed his regret at being unable to accept the invitation to address the association, and was read by Carlisle P. Winslow, director of the Forest Products Laboratory, who represented the Department of Agriculture at this meeting.

An abstract of Mr. Meredith's letter follows:

"The United States is today facing the most critical pulp and paper situation in its history. Of these, the newsprint situation is the most serious. Present demands, abnormal though they may seem, are merely an incident in the rapidly growing demand for newsprint paper.

"Today we are dependent upon other countries for the equivalent of two-thirds of the pulpwood, pulp, or newsprint which goes into American newspapers. Our newsprint industry is concentrated largely in New England, New York and the Lake States. I am told that 60 per cent of the pulp and paper concerns in New York have no stumpage of their own, and that less than five have enough timberland for continuous future operation. The predicted life of the industry in New York, New Hampshire, and even in Maine, where the great bulk of our Eastern pulpwood still remains, is alarmingly short.

"We have, on the other hand, large quantities of suitable newsprint woods in the Pacific Northwest and in Alaska. The annual growth of timber on the National Forests of southeastern Alaska alone would supply half of our present American newsprint requirements. Here the industry is undeveloped.

"A far greater degree of independence in newsprint manufacture can be accomplished by two measures—the development of the industry in the Pacific Northwest and in Alaska and the large-scale growing of timber in New England and the Lake States. Both of these measures would be greatly stimulated by the passage of the Poindexter pulp survey bill, now pending in the Senate. A pulpwood survey would secure the facts on which a sound development of the industry in the Northwest and in Alaska could be based, and it would also afford a basis for the production of pulp timber in the Lake States and in the Northeast.

"Protection of forests from fire is perhaps the most important single requirement in the growing of timber. Twenty-four States are now conducting fire protection operations. These States expend yearly for fire protection upwards of $625,000, and private owners of forest land within their borders expend in normal years approximately $1,000,000. The Federal appropriation is but $100,000, which is entirely inadequate.

"The forest service is conducting at its forest products laboratory work of very great and increasing importance to the pulp and paper manufacturer. Limited though such work is, it has already covered a large field in the suitability of various American woods for the different kinds of pulp, and incidentally has developed information of great importance on the technique of the various pulp-making processes."

AMERICA RECOGNIZES REPUBLIC OF ARMENIA

State Department Announces Question of Boundary Left to Future Consideration.

The United States has formally recognized the Republic of Armenia, the State Department has announced. The note which announced the recognition of Armenia states specifically that the boundary of the state shall be left to future determination. The question of Armenian boundaries is now being taken up at the San Remo conference.

Secretary of State Colby signed the note which was handed to the Armenian representative here, Mr. Padermajian, and also forwarded to Ambassador Johnson for presentation to the San Remo conference.

ADVERTISINGMENT Rupture Kills 7,000 Annually

Seven thousand persons each year are laid away by the fatal rupture, being marked "Rupture." Why? Because the unfortunate ones had neglected themselves or had been merely taking care of the symptoms (swelling) of the affliction and paying no attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a truss, appliance, or whatever name you choose to call it? At best, the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation, thus robbing the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nourishment.

But science has found a way, and every truss sufferer in the land is invited to make a PLAPAD test right in the privacy of their own homes. The PLAPAD method is unquestionably the most scientific, logical and successful self-treatment for rupture the world has ever known.

The PLAPAD PAD when adhered closely to the body cannot possibly slip or shift out of place, therefore, cannot chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—expensive. To be used while you work and while you sleep. No straps, buttons or springs attached.

Learn how to close the hernial opening, secure relief and cure your rupture. A PLAPAD CO. Send your name today to PLAPAD CO., 100 N. 1st St., St. Paul, Minn. FREE Trial Plapad and information necessary.
